As you already know, one of my interests is travel photography and we are entering the season when many of us travel far (or near) to experience and photograph new locations. A stay at an area B&B or a friend's cottage can provide ample opportunity to enjoy a different life from your normal routine. Perhaps you have time to notice nature's beauty when the pace is slower and your schedule is not so packed. Maybe you also have the chance to view familiar things from a different perspective. Finding beauty that others walked by is a comment I often hear with respect to my photos.

I have written often about travel photography so here are some links to past articles that you may find useful.

Tips for travel photography. Review my five tips for better travel photos.

Rainy day photos. Don't spend vacation days inside when rainy days offer enticing photographic opportunities.

Shooting near water. Canadians have abundant opportunities to visit lakes and seashores so review these tips before heading to the beach!

Don't miss the road shots! Don't miss photo opportunities from the passenger seat or on a bus.

What to do with all those travel photos? How to organize your pics once you are home. Please note that the article refers to Shutterfly.com. As of March 2023, setting up a personalized site for sharing on Shutterfly is no longer an option. I would suggest trying a site like Flickr where you can post 1000 free photos and provide links to friends.
