The sky was masked out completely, including the sky around the trees and in the gaps in the Scott Monument.

A replacement sky was brought in and layered under the photo of the Scott Memorial.

To complete the photo, some additional editing would be done, such as removing the post at the right with the security camera on it, cropping to remove some of the lower wall and so forth.

Filters (“dynamic contrast” and “tone enhancer”) applied to reduce the haziness of the background

Masking used to restrict the area of these filters to just the ground in behind the ship

2 “lens blur” filters applied to give an illusion of a short depth of field (foreground out of focus while background remains in focus)

The brick pillar at the left had an even amount of blur applied with masking to restrict it to the pillar.

The lower half of the photo had a graduated blur applied with more out of focus closest to the camera fading to no blur as you get close to the ship.
